HCPA Consumer Product Ingredients Dictionary Terms of Use

Effective Date: November 17, 2026

1. Acceptance of Terms

By creating a free account, purchasing a subscription, or otherwise accessing account features of the HCPA Consumer Product Ingredients Dictionary (the "Dictionary"), you ("User," "you") agree to be bound by these HCPA Consumer Product Ingredients Dictionary Terms of Use (the "Terms"). The Dictionary website (the "Site") is operated by the Household & Commercial Products Association, Inc. ("HCPA," "we," "us"). If you do not agree to these Terms, do not create an account, purchase a subscription, or use account features of the Site.

2. Description of Service

The Dictionary is a reference database of standardized ingredient nomenclature and related information (including, where available, CAS Registry Numbers, chemical formulas, chemical class, function, VOC status, EPA Safer Choice and FIFRA § 25(b) status, REACH listing status, and references) developed and maintained by HCPA's Nomenclature Committee and Advisory Committee. HCPA may make portions of the Dictionary available through free account access and may make additional Dictionary content and features available only through a paid subscription.

HCPA Names and associated records reflect a consensus process among industry and HCPA staff and are intended to provide a standardized identifier and publicly available descriptive information for an ingredient. They are not a certification of safety, regulatory compliance, or fitness for any particular purpose (see Section 9, Disclaimers).

3. Free Accounts

HCPA may make a free account option available for the Dictionary. A free account allows a User to search and browse the Dictionary, view public or limited ingredient information made available to free users, and use account features that HCPA makes available for free accounts, such as saved searches, saved ingredients, or similar account tools.

A free account does not include access to full ingredient records, regulatory status information, references, PDF or Excel exports, bulk downloads, or any other feature that HCPA makes available only through a paid subscription. HCPA may change, limit, suspend, or discontinue the free account option or any free account feature at any time.

Free account users may view and cite individual HCPA ingredient names, identifiers, and public information from the Dictionary for their own internal business, regulatory, product-development, labeling, or compliance work. Free account users may not reproduce substantial portions of the Dictionary, copy or extract Dictionary content in bulk, or use a free account as a substitute for a paid subscription.

Free account users may not scrape, crawl, harvest, or use automated means to access, copy, download, monitor, or extract data from the Dictionary. Free account users may not circumvent rate limits, access controls, bot-detection measures, anti-abuse measures, or other technical restrictions. Free account users also may not use Dictionary content to train, fine-tune, ground, test, validate, or support any artificial-intelligence, machine-learning, retrieval, data, or similar system, except for ordinary individual-record use in the User's own internal work.

Free account users may not use Dictionary content to build, populate, maintain, enhance, or validate a product, database, service, or tool that competes with or substitutes for the Dictionary. Free account users may not share login credentials, allow any other person to use their account, or access the Dictionary for any unlawful, infringing, abusive, or unauthorized purpose.

HCPA Names and Dictionary content are provided for informational and nomenclature-standardization purposes only. A User may not state or imply that HCPA has endorsed, certified, approved, reviewed, or made any legal, regulatory, safety, or compliance determination regarding any ingredient, product, company, formulation, label, or disclosure.

HCPA may suspend or close a free account, with or without notice, if HCPA believes that the account has been used in violation of these Terms, presents a security or misuse risk, burdens the Dictionary or related systems, or is otherwise inconsistent with the purposes of the free account option.

HCPA's collection and use of information associated with free accounts is described in the Privacy Policy available on the Dictionary website.

4. Subscription Tiers, Fees, and Renewal

- Paid subscriptions are offered in tiers (e.g., Corporate, Small Business) at the rates published on the Site at the time of purchase or renewal.
- Subscription fees are billed per the billing cycle and are due at the start of each subscription period.
- Unless cancelled in accordance with Section 6, paid subscriptions renew automatically at the then-current rate. HCPA will provide at least 30 days' notice before a renewal charge or a credit-card expiration issue. Any change to the subscription rate will be communicated in or before that 30-day renewal notice, and rate changes take effect only at renewal, not mid-term.
- Paid subscribers may upgrade tiers (e.g., Small Business to Corporate) mid-term, subject to any proration, billing, or tier-change policies HCPA makes available on the Site or otherwise communicates to the subscriber.
- Payment is processed through HCPA's designated payment processor (Authorize.Net). Paid subscribers are responsible for keeping billing and card information current using the self-service account tools provided on the Site.

5. Account Registration and Security

- Users must provide accurate, current information when registering and must promptly update that information if it changes.
- Users are responsible for maintaining the confidentiality of login credentials and for all activity that occurs under their accounts.
- Users must notify HCPA promptly of any known or suspected unauthorized use of their accounts.
- Corporate paid subscribers may designate multiple authorized users ("Authorized Users") under a single subscription, subject to any seat, user-limit, or account-management policies HCPA makes available on the Site or otherwise communicates to the subscriber.

6. Cancellation

Paid subscribers may cancel automatic renewal at any time through the Site's self-service account tools or by written notice to HCPA using the contact information posted on the Site. Cancellation takes effect at the end of the then-current subscription period. Unless otherwise stated on the Site or required by law, subscription fees are non-refundable, and HCPA does not provide credits or refunds for partial subscription periods.

7. Permitted Use, License, and Intellectual Property

Subject to these Terms, HCPA grants each User a limited, non-exclusive, non-transferable, revocable license to access and use the Dictionary features made available to that User's account type. Paid subscription features are available only to paid subscribers in good standing and only after payment of applicable fees.

Permitted external use for paid subscribers. For clarity, and notwithstanding the restrictions in Section 8, paid subscribers may use HCPA Names and the content of individual Dictionary records in their own product labels, ingredient-disclosure statements and webpages, regulatory filings, retailer submissions, safety data sheets, and compliance documentation. This permission does not extend to reproducing substantial portions of the Dictionary itself.

Intellectual property. The Dictionary — including its compilation, structure, records, and HCPA Names — is owned by HCPA and protected by applicable intellectual-property laws; no rights are granted except as expressly stated in these Terms. A User may state factually that an ingredient "is listed in the HCPA Dictionary" for identification purposes but may not use HCPA's name, marks, or Dictionary listings in a manner implying HCPA's endorsement, certification, or approval of any ingredient, product, or company.

Beta and pre-release. HCPA may offer Users access to beta or pre-release features or environments. Such features are provided as is, may change or be withdrawn without notice, and are excluded from any commitments elsewhere in these Terms. HCPA may use any feedback Users provide about beta and pre-release features without restriction.

8. Restrictions

Users will not, and will not permit any third party to do any of the following:

- Share, sell, sublicense, rent, lend, transfer, or otherwise redistribute Dictionary content or login credentials, allow any other person to use the User's account, reproduce substantial portions of the Dictionary, or copy or extract Dictionary content in bulk, except as expressly permitted in Section 7 (Permitted Use, License, and Intellectual Property);
- Scrape, crawl, harvest, or use automated means to systematically download, copy, or extract data from the Dictionary beyond normal interactive use, including circumventing any rate limits, access controls, bot-detection measures, anti-abuse measures, or other technical restrictions;
- Use Dictionary content to train, fine-tune, ground, test, validate, or support any machine-learning, artificial-intelligence, retrieval, data, or similar system, or bulk-load Dictionary content into any AI, retrieval, or data platform, beyond individual-record use in the ordinary course of the User's internal work;
- Use Dictionary content to build, populate, maintain, enhance, or validate a product, database, or service that competes with or substitutes for the Dictionary;
- Reverse engineer, decompile, or attempt to derive the source code or underlying database structure of the Site;
- Represent that HCPA Names or Dictionary records constitute a regulatory approval, certification, or legal opinion regarding any ingredient or product;
- Use the Dictionary in any way that infringes HCPA's or any third party's intellectual property rights or that violates applicable law.

9. Disclaimers

THE DICTIONARY IS PROVIDED "AS IS" AND "AS AVAILABLE." HCPA describes ingredients based on publicly available information and the work product of its Nomenclature and Advisory Committees but does not independently verify every fact submitted by ingredient suppliers and does not warrant that the Dictionary is complete, accurate, current, or free of error. The Dictionary is an informational and nomenclature-standardization resource; it is not a substitute for any User's own regulatory, legal, safety, or compliance review, and HCPA is not a law firm and does not provide legal advice. Each User remains solely responsible for determining the suitability, safety, and regulatory status of any ingredient or product for its intended use.

10. Third-Party Content and Cross-References

The Dictionary may cross-reference or link to third-party resources (for example, CleanGredients) for informational purposes. HCPA does not control and is not responsible for the accuracy or availability of third-party content.

11. Limitation of Liability

TO THE MAXIMUM EXTENT PERMITTED BY LAW, HCPA WILL NOT BE LIABLE FOR ANY INDIRECT, INCIDENTAL, SPECIAL, CONSEQUENTIAL, OR PUNITIVE DAMAGES ARISING OUT OF OR RELATED TO A USER'S USE OF THE DICTIONARY, EVEN IF ADVISED OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGES. HCPA'S TOTAL LIABILITY FOR ANY CLAIM ARISING OUT OF THESE TERMS WILL NOT EXCEED THE SUBSCRIPTION OR OTHER FEES PAID BY THE USER TO HCPA FOR DICTIONARY ACCESS IN THE 12 MONTHS PRECEDING THE CLAIM.

12. Indemnification

To the maximum extent permitted by law, each User will indemnify, defend, and hold harmless HCPA and its officers, directors, employees, agents, contractors, committee members, and representatives from and against any claims, losses, liabilities, damages, costs, and expenses, including reasonable attorneys' fees, arising out of or related to the User's breach of these Terms, misuse of the Dictionary, unauthorized use or disclosure of Dictionary content, infringement or alleged infringement of third-party rights, violation of law, or use of Dictionary content in labels, disclosures, regulatory filings, safety data sheets, compliance documentation, products, services, databases, tools, or other materials.

13. Availability and Maintenance

HCPA may suspend, limit, or interrupt access to the Dictionary or the Site for scheduled maintenance, updates, security, system performance, or other operational reasons. HCPA will provide reasonable advance notice where practicable but does not warrant that the Dictionary or the Site will be uninterrupted or always available.

14. Suspension and Termination

HCPA may suspend or terminate a User's access for material breach of these Terms, non-payment of applicable fees, suspected misuse (including the restrictions in Section 8), security concerns, or conduct that burdens the Dictionary or related systems, with notice where practicable. Upon termination, the User's license to use the Dictionary ends immediately; provisions that by their nature should survive, including Sections 7, 8, 9, 11, 12, 19, 20, and 21, and any payment obligations, will survive.

15. Privacy

HCPA's collection and use of User personal, account, billing, and usage information is described in HCPA's Privacy Policy, which is available on the Dictionary website and incorporated by reference. This includes information collected through free account registration, paid subscription registration, billing, account activity, and related Site features.

16. Changes to These Terms

HCPA may update these Terms from time to time. Material changes will be communicated by posting updated Terms on the Site or by other notice HCPA deems appropriate. Continued use of account features or paid subscription features after changes take effect constitutes acceptance of the revised Terms.

17. Force Majeure

HCPA will not be responsible for any delay, interruption, failure, or unavailability of the Dictionary or Site caused by events beyond HCPA's reasonable control, including acts of God, natural disasters, epidemics, pandemics, public-health emergencies, labor disputes, internet or hosting failures, cyberattacks, utility failures, governmental actions, changes in law, emergencies, or failures of third-party systems or services.

18. Assignment

A User may not assign or transfer these Terms or any account, subscription, license, or right to use the Dictionary without HCPA's prior written consent. HCPA may assign these Terms in connection with a reorganization, transfer of the Dictionary, merger, consolidation, sale of assets, or similar transaction.

19. Severability; Waiver

If any provision of these Terms is held invalid, illegal, or unenforceable, the remaining provisions will remain in full force and effect. HCPA's failure to enforce any provision of these Terms will not constitute a waiver of that provision or any other provision.

20. Entire Agreement

These Terms, together with any order, subscription confirmation, pricing page, posted policy, Privacy Policy, or additional terms expressly incorporated into these Terms, constitute the entire agreement between the User and HCPA regarding access to and use of the Dictionary and supersede any prior or contemporaneous understandings regarding that subject matter.

21. Governing Law and Disputes

These Terms are governed by the laws of the District of Columbia without regard to conflict-of-laws principles. Each User agrees that the state and federal courts located in the District of Columbia will have exclusive jurisdiction and venue over any action arising out of or relating to these Terms or the Dictionary.

22. Contact

Questions about these Terms may be directed to HCPA using the contact information posted on the Site.